2022 SNEAK PEEK

It's that time of year when we're ready (and excited!) to share what the future holds for the stamp program. Here's a sneak peek at some of the topics you can expect in 2022.

We'll kick off the year with a Black History Month issue featuring trailblazer Eleanor Collins – Canada's first lady of jazz and a living legend at the age of 101.

Our flower issue, the annual reminder that spring is near, will feature graceful callas, commonly called calla lilies, even though they aren't members of the lily family. Also marching to the fore is a special commemorative envelope celebrating the centennial of the Governor General's Foot Guards, Canada's senior reserve infantry regiment.

Then we'll land a second set of five stamps from our Canadians in Flight series, encourage Canadians to help save lives with a stamp on organ and tissue donation, and pay tribute to three Indigenous leaders devoted to protecting the rights and cultures of their people.

We'll dive to the depths of the ocean to learn about endangered whales – then take you for a whirl on some colourful, whimsical vintage carousels.

Since we're all itching to roam, we'll issue stamps showcasing five vintage travel posters, along with other collectibles and a special souvenir sheet just in time for CAPEX 22 (an international stamp show and exhibition being held in Toronto next June). And we'll honour award-winning jazz, blues and R&B singer Salome Bey, who inspired generations of young Black performers.

We'll celebrate in ice hockey the 50th anniversary of the 1972 Canada-USSR Summit Series and near Remembrance Day, issue a stamp to honour Tommy Prince, Canada's most-decorated Indigenous war veteran and one of its most decorated non-commissioned officers.

Then count on us to mark some special days of the year with stamps celebrating Eid, Diwali, Hanukkah and Christmas, including a three-stamp holiday issue that's, quite frankly, for the birds!

BLUENOSE, 1921-2021

Issue date: June 29, 2021

Booklet of 10 stamps
414167111
$9.20

This year marks the 100th anniversary of the launch of Bluenose, the most recognized sailing vessel in Canadian history. The famous schooner was designed and built in response to a rivalry between Lunenburg, Nova Scotia, and Gloucester, Massachusetts, over which community produced the fastest and most successful fishing vessels. This rivalry led to the International Fishermen's Trophy, held for the first time in 1920. Bluenose was built specifically to challenge the American winners of that first series of races. Launched from Lunenburg's Smith & Rhuland Shipyard on March 26, 1921, the schooner was designed by marine architect William James Roué of Dartmouth, Nova Scotia.

With Angus J. Walters as captain, in October 1921, Bluenose won the International Fishermen's Trophy. Over the next 17 years, it remained undefeated in four subsequent series: 1922, 1923, 1931 and 1938.

Bluenose has adorned the 10-cent coin almost exclusively since 1937, is featured on Nova Scotia's current licence plate, was immortalized in song by folk legend Stan Rogers and has appeared on four previously issued Canadian stamps. The schooner is also one of the very few non-human inductees in Canada's Sports Hall of Fame.

The pair of se-tenant (joined) stamps were designed by Halifax designer Dennis Page and Oliver Hill, and feature illustrations by Michael Little, inspired by the paintings of east-coast marine artist William E. deGarthe. The issue includes a booklet of 10 Permanent™ stamps, five of each design, a two-stamp souvenir sheet and a souvenir sheet Official First Day Cover. Also available are an uncut press sheet comprising six rows of four stamps arranged in se-tenant pairs, as well as a framed version. Forty thousand souvenir sheets will be overprinted with the logo for CAPEX 22. This international stamp show and exhibition will be hosted in Toronto by the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, June 9-12, 2022.

STAN ROGERS, 1949-1983

Issue date: July 21, 2021

First day of issue
special envelope

When Stan Rogers took the stage, guitar in hand, his presence was electric. Standing six foot four, with a deep, rumbling voice that rose and fell like waves on a Nova Scotia shore, he poured his heart and soul into every word he sang. Poetry set to music, his ballads laid bare the lives of the sailors, ranchers, miners and others whose stories had captured his imagination.

"Stan said things about people that were true. He loved talking and listening to people because he was interested in what they did and wanted to tell their story," says his widow, Ariel Rogers. "He had an incredible gift for taking that life experience and turning it almost like a prism, so you saw the essence of the person rather than just a reflection."

Born in Hamilton, Ontario, on November 29, 1949, Rogers spent many summers in Nova Scotia, visiting his mother's hometown of Canso. It was there that he found his passion in traditional Maritime music. A skilful storyteller, Rogers sang about subjects that were both deeply personal and universally relatable. He took tales from the past and made them moving and meaningful in the present – from the raucous sea shanty “Barrett’s Privateers,” on his first album Fogarty’s Cove (1976), to the emotional anthem “Northwest Passage” (1981), the title track of the last release before his death.

Rogers was only 33 – with his career on the rise – when his life was cut tragically short in an airplane fire on June 2, 1983. Likened to such greats as Bob Dylan and Woody Guthrie, he left a legacy of 11 albums, most released posthumously, that have kept his music vibrant and alive for nearly 40 years. "It was never about him. It was the music that mattered," says Ariel. "He always said, 'I don't care if I'm a star, but I wouldn't mind being a comet.' And that's exactly what he was."
